

A press-on apparatus including two press-on apparatus parts for two gear members running together is proposed, with the second press-on apparatus part partially accommodating the force applied by the first press-on apparatus part.

30